The New Republican Organ at Columbus, Onlo.—We understand that a joint stock company has been organized and incorporated for the purpose of starting and publishing a Rapublican paper in the city of Columbus, to be known by the name of "The Onlo State Statinel." The incorporators are, Bull. E Smith, Geo. M. Parsens, C. P. L. Butler, Theodore Comitock, and Henry Miller. It is understood that the new organ will sustain President Johnson, as against the dominant element in its party; in other worls, it is to be conservative the the New York Times. A center across a fine field is a pleasant thing out we hate a canter in the pulpit.

THE AMERICAN-FRANCO-MEXICAN IMBROGLIO. The correspondence submitted by the President to the House of Representatives on Tuesday, a synopsis of which was given yesterday by telegraph in reference to our Franco-Mexican imbroglio, will be perused by the country generally with much interest. The correspondence amounts to this: The French Emperor wishes the United States Government to recognize the socalled empire in Mexico, and our Government plainly and decidedly refuses to do it, even "if the French troops were withdrawn from

This puts an end to the suspense, and clears up the thousand and one rumors with which the country has been flooded on the subject. Our Government recognizes the Republic of Mexico and that only. The tone of the corres pondence, while it is studiously polite is not ncertain, and the position of the present Administration at least has been consistent. The views it holds now it has held from the teginning, and it does not propose to change

We think the people will sustain these views and sustain them with a unanimity and warmth which could hardly be looked for in reference to any other subject. Whatever differences of opinion there may be upon other matters, there fill scarcely be any worthy of note upon this. If the proposition were submitted to the American people to-morrow whether they would be willing to have their Government recognize the so-called Emperor and Empire of Mexico, the vote in opposition to it would be, we think, in the neighborhood of ninety-nine to one in favor of it. For the Government to recognize and thus encourage this bastard empire in Mexico would be indeed a departure from the traditional policy of our Government from its founds shock the sentiments of the people of the United States, and weaken the hold which the present Administration has upon their confidence and respect more perhaps than almost any other act of foreign policy could. The course of that Administrati n upon this great question shows how thoroughly American, in its broadest sense. its policy is, and exhibits the secret, if we may term it, of the Administration's strength and potniarity. Our American system of government is emphatically one of liberality at home and of non-entanglement abroad. But this non entanglement with the affairs o European Governments, and the European sys in our affairs. It is the maxim of Hands off Let us slone and we will let you alone. It is not simply the Monroe doctrine. It is the Washington doctrine, the Republican doctrine, the American doctrine; and its wisdom become every year more and more evident. The monar letween themselves for the purpose of amnsing their subjects and drawing off attention from the extortion and rottenness and costliness of thrones. It we were in alliance with any of them, we should be perpetually embroiled in their quarrels with no benefit, but constant demage to ourselves. Hence, the profound wisdem of our great, time-proved foreign policy of letting alone and of being let alone. t is exceedingly modest in Mr. L. Napoleon. who tred npon the constitution of his own country, which he solemnly swore he would ma'ntain and protect, and waded through perjnry and thood to a throne, we say it is exceedngly modest in this Mr. L. Napoleon to ask us to change this traditional policy of our Govern ment to please him. What business has he in Mexico? By what right does he attempt to set up a government in Mexico upon the ruins of the Republic? If the so-called Mexican Empire isn't his, why is he askng recognition for it at the hands of our Government? What business is it to him? Oh, the Republican Government owed a few thonsand dollars to some of his subjects. Parbleu. monsieur! Most of the money was owed to English bond-holders, and the joint demand was made by England, France, and Spain; but England and Spain, when they saw what the Frenchman was up to, refused to countenance the fraud or abet the neurpation, and quietly

Then it was that Louis Napoleon, when this country was in the throes of a gigantic civil war, unguardedly announced to his General Forey, invading Mexico, the animus and secret of the outrage. It was to check the influence of the United States in North America' If he had had the ghost of a suspicion that there was such a thing as defeat in reserve for the Confederacy he would not for once have let his soul out of his mouth. Mr. Slidell had sncceeded in bamboozling hlm into the firm belies that the Union was indeed dissolved, and then he thought was his opportunity to strike at American institutions, and, by dividing, conquer. M neienr John and Monsieur Louis were equally short sighted. Jonathan may be awkward, but he is a terrible fellow to grapple with. He is proverbially good-natured, but he doesn't like people to be smashing in his doors or windows or attempt to undermine his house. As if to make the contrast between the American and the European system in America as striking as possible, an Austrian was selected to carry out the programme of despotism. An Austrian! The very name calls up visions of bigotry and cruelty-visions of the rack and the dungeon, of suffed freedom, of Haynau' Maximillian, it must be confessed, has done just tice to the historic fame of his ancestry. He has already raised the black flag. His friends keep announcing that the Republic has coased to exist. According to the reports, it appears to have ceared to exist a great many times, but it keeps coming to life again. It doesn't stay dead. It reminds us of the stories about the success of the invaders of Nicaragua a few years ago by the Walker fillibusters. Every teamer brenght the report that the invaders had cleared the field and that thenceforth there was plain sailing. The very next arrival told us that the same field had been again cleared; and so they kept on Cearing the field until at last the invaders cleared themselves out. If we have little confidence in the ability o the Mexican masses to maintain a republican government of law and order, we have still less confidence in the ability of a bactard empire foreign to those masses to accomplish the same object. It could not have enstained itself a single day without foreign bayonets-which is a beautiful and pregnant commentary that no man can mistake upon the alleged affection with which the Mexican people regard the neurpation. If, as the tools of Maximilian declare, the Mexicans accept the Empire, withdraw the foreign bayonets, as well French as Austrian, and let the proof, the real proof, ap pear. Do Maximilian and his friends dare do that? Until they do, their acts will belie their

We do not know what may be the final result as to this Mexican problem. We feel certain however, that ere long it will be in some way or other Americanized and thus rendered fit for

When General Scott was in the City of Mexico, he was offered its government and we think it quite probable that could a perfectly untrammeled vote be had in that country a very large majority of its most intelligent citizens would vote for a protectorate over it by this country or its annexation to the United States.

Neither of these may take place, and yet Mex lee may be Americanized. Several bundred Americans, it is probable, have found their way there since the close of the war, and no doubt others will follow. They will, of course, be obliged to support the government under which they may live for the time being; but ewearing allegiance to Maximilian will not change their natures, and the upshot of the business will be an infusion of American brood and ideae into the country. It will be sowing new seed, which will are long spring up and bear a crop that will invigorate and rejuvenate the land. We have no fears of any permanent aid to despotism there from the influx of Americans, be they from the North or South.

The Louisville Democrat undertakes to e the Louisville Courier for advocating the repeal of the slave code of Kentucky now that clavery no longer exists. The only difference between the two is that the editor of the Democrat is simply an ass, while the editor of the Courier is a sensible man.

As the Richmond While save, with the on of slavery the South commences a new era. We will all, old and young, male and fe male, have to learn to work. We will also have to learn to save. Living as we have in the mildst of abundance, there has hitherto been a reckless prodigality in Southern housekeeping hat was found no where else upon earth. I Virginia dinner for a family of six persons would have furnished a French cook material for a dozen dinners. The waste was enormous This prodigality cannot now be afforded. We must learn economy. The war taught us some sinable lessons, nor have the last nine months een barren of instruction. It is not easy to throw off old habits and assume new ones; and one of the most difficult habits to break off is that of bospitality. It causes perpetual selfunishment, and does violence to our most genrons social instincts.

Two evils cometimes so correct and modify ach other that good springs out of them, as in edicine one kind of inflammation is cured by exciting another. So the necessity that each will be under to attend more closely to the conerns of business, will confine all more to their mes, and will make social interchanges less quent and the rites of hospitality less onerus. This will greatly conduce to economy in very household, without being accompanied by the unseemly manifestation of a churlish

We will have to cultivate those strict business habits that usually prevail in business communities, chief among which are punctuality in observing appointments and system in the mangement of our affairs. Nothing so retards our own business as a slovenly, fitful, and immethodical attention to it; and nothing so disconcerte and disappoints men of business as a disregard of punctuality in meeting engagements with them. An old Paritan preacher used to say, "The want of punctuality is the want of virtue." It is certainly a great, if not an unper-donable, fault in business circles. This is the beginning of a new year, as it is ne commencement of a new era. Our necesities are such as to demand that we shall work hat we shall practice economy, that we shall conire method in business, and that we shall serve punctuality. If we have not comnerced with the observance of these duties, we could enter npon them at once—the sooner the belter-for they cannot be escaped.

Gev. Cox, of Ohio, was inangurated on ne 8th inet., and his Inangural Address conains many liberal sentiments in reference to be present condition of the country. The following extract expresses views which deserve r hearty indorsement. The Governor says:

"Conquest does not rightfully give unlimited emay over the persons and property of the conquest does not rightfully give unlimited emay over the persons and property of the conquered, and their rights may be diminished no intuher than is necessary for the public asfety. It is were proven that it would be impossible for us to live safety, as shares of a common government, with the people of any State or community, our republicanism might force us to consent to separation, but could not justify us in holding them as subjects; and this proposition is true without reference to race or color. Rapresentation is not a privilege conferred upon true without reference to race or color. Representation is not a privilege conferred upor acjuites, but it is most efficient for cod when it approaches most nearly giving voice in the Legislature to all prinorities in proportion to their number is better and safer that a minority, however ossille to us in principle, should be so repre-ented as to be openly heard and answered han that it should have the advantage of win ing sympathy and gaining partisans by mak ing issue upon the question of the right of rep-resentation instead of noon the falsity of its obnoxious principles. Military government is in its very essence a despotism, and any long continuance of it after the cessation of armed sistance is contrary to and a confession of the

From the foregoing it is apparent that Gov. Cox supports President Johnson's magnant mous policy toward the people of the South He evidently favors the speedy admission of the outhern representatives into Congress, and also the removal of all mlittary pressure from the States lately in rebellion. President Johnson, we are sure, desires to restore the supremacy of civil power throughout the Union, and s taking steps to that effect as rapidly as irenmstances will allow. Congress, we think. should immediately repeal the odlous test oath of 1802, and admit the Southern representatives to their seats in a body. By this policy peace and harmony can be at once restored to the whole country.

THE GOLD MINES OF COLORADO -A Colorado correspondent of the New York Tribnne, in speaking of the gold deposits of that region,

They have been tested a thousand times, in They have been tested a thousand times, in the rude pan of the prospector, the mill of the miner, and the laboratory of the chemist, and with but one result—a yield of gold so great as to render it certain that the quartz velus of Colorado are the richest in the world. In Europe veins that do not yield to exceed $12 per cord are worked and made to pay (in Nevada and California) $40, which pays to work; while in Colorado no lode is considered worthy of record that will not pay one-half more than this, while a great part of them readily yield, under the present imperfect process, from $190 to $300 per cord. I could mention a hundred of this character.

This statement is corroborated by an English eologist who visited Colorado in the Interest of a Loudon company and who lately passed through Louisville on his return home.

We have seen statements from engineers resicent in Colorado that an improved process has lately been invented by which about pinety per cent of all the gold in the quartz is When it is borne in mind that hither only about ten per cent has been saved, the value of the improvement will be appreciated. If the Colorado gold mines are the richtat in the world, according to the above orrespondent and the English minerologist to whom we have alinded, and ninety per cent of the gold in the quarte is saved, the amount of his precious metal that will yet be obtained in Uciorado almost staggers the mind to contemplate. In addition to the gold, it is now known to be rich in sliver-probably as rich as Neeral cres, and can readily credit the statements made in reference to them. We certainly should not use the strong language we do unces we felt justified in doing so by the facts of the case. Tre Democrat al udes to the Journal as "the organ of the Radical Party in the State." A paper that "does, not blante the blacks for the newness of license which declares that "no each temptations could be laid before any other race or people without producing horors and savagery beyond parallel," a paper which is more radical than Thad: Sievens or Charles Semner, more radical than the Buston Commonwealth or Wendell Phillips, is a sweet and musical trumpet, with au s before it, to talk about radicalism, isn't it? Has the editor of the Democrat yet signed the petition of his allies for the impeachment of the President? When "Bil Arp" some time ince began the publication of his letters, we thought them readable and amusing. We regard his later

A Lady's Tribule to title Late Governor. Conwin.-A correspondent of the Charleston (S. C.) Courier (Mrs. King, daughter of the death of the late Governor Corwin:

There seems to be a general and growing desire in the minds of the true Union men of the State for a convention, which, now that the only cause of a difference of opinion, as between it em is removed, shall, in a particules played and the Union party prepose to adhere, both in respect to their duty in giving a hearty support to the Administration of President Johnson, and in regard to various questions that whis soon, as they have already, to some extent, agitated the public mind. We see no good reason why such a convention should not be called On the contrary, we regard the movement with favor. The time for hooting at men who voted for the Constitutional Amendment as "Abolitionists" has gone by. The opponents of that measure very well death of the late Governor Corwln:

The Union party should see to it, that the political power of the State is kept in the hunds of man who have saved the State from the infumy of having langaged in the rebellion; and that its honors and emoluments are bestowed upon those whose voices have always been raised for "men and money" to put down the rebellion; and where arms have assisted in "conquering an honorable peacs." To the President: Sim: I have the honor to acknowledge the reupon his trial. When the war was at its cri-

upon his tr'al. When the war was at the original period by Jetferson Davis, the commander in the of the army of inengents, was taken prisoner, with other prominent rehels, by the military force of the United States. It was the duty of the military so to take them. They have been therefore, and are vet held as prisoners of war. Though active hostilities have cased, a state of war still exists over the terifory of rehellion. Until peace shall come in fact and law they can be lawfully held as prisoners of war. I have everthought that trials for high treion cannot be had before a military tribunal. The civil courts have alone jurication of that crime. The question then arises, When and where must this trial be held. In the clause of the Constitution mentioned in the resolution of the Secate it is plainly written that they must be held in the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed. me shall have been committed blow that many pers us of learning and

Some of the prominent rebels were personally present at the invasion of Marolant and ly present at the invasion of Marolant and ly present at the invasion of Marolant and ly present at the invasion of Marolant and Pennsylvaria, but all of them, or nearly all of them, received military paroles upon the surrander of the rebel armies. While I think that these parties have no ultimate protection from present that it would be a volation of the pardies to prosecute those persons for crimes before the political power of the Government has proclaimed that the rebellion has been suppressed. It lellows from what I have said that I am of opinion that Jefferson Davis and other of the insurgents ongult to he fried in some one of the States of districts in which they in person especially committed crimes with which they may be charged.

Though netive hostilities and flagrant have not for some time existed between the United States and the insurgents, peaceful relations between the Government and the people in the States and districts in rebellion have not yet been fully restored. None of the justices of the Sapteme Court have held circuit coures in the States and districts since actual hostilities ceased. When the courts are opened, and allows can be peacefully administered and enforced in those States where the people schelled against the Government, when thus peaces shall have come, in fact and in law, the persons now held in rullitary entody as urisoners of the capital and and the first manufactures and the first and in law, the persons now held in rullitary entody as urisoners of the capital and allowed the courts are opened, and wheld in military entody as urisoners of the capital the come.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1866. IVES OF CICERO—THE OLD AND THE NEW.

Three biographies of Cicero are now accessirigor, scarcely enrylves the competition which the more familiar and the southern Siciliv; then the remoter Ganls, on eliher side the Alp; then the wealthy rival on the southern and opposite shore, the Carthage of which scarcely a trace now remain; then the western Spain, the eastern Achaia, the Dicia remote and Inhospitable, the mysterious vet despised Judea, the inturious Ezyl, the far-distant Partha, and Bilain, "totally reverted from all the world beside," securedly worth conquering, and yet necessary to be a concerned to complete the dedgraped in the south of the southern and the southern and the southern and the southern and the probability of the dedgraped in the southern and the souther who have falsified or distorted the truth. This is precisely the advantage which geographical vessarish has rendered to history. It has reading of mean facts which were before unitelligible, to correct errors by showing that certain statements could not possibly be true, to enter fully into the spirit of narrations by standing in the place of eye-wilnesses and looking through their cyss—in a word, it has enabled them to do instue to recorded facts by researching them before the imagination on the very spot where they were transacted. Let any person read Stanley's Geography of Palestine and Egypt, as it illustrates the bistory of both these countries, or Thomson's The Land and The Book or Wordsworth's Greece, or Rive inson's Herodous, and he will see and feel how great is this advantage.

neon'e Herodoties, and he will see and feel how reat is this advantage.

2. The modern historian has ampler materials in the richer and fuller knowledge of what termains of antiquity. The coluration that we en gathered and excavated as they illustrate and vivity dates, the inscriptions that have been iscovered in Exapt, Greece, and Assyria—inle ones opening a new look npon a vast and any areas of ancient life—the wonderful disoveries of burled neasils, tombs, habitations, bones, goods, creaments, articles of superel , goods, creaments, articles of apparel, paintings illustrating the tastes and unoverling the crimes of other times, yielded by executations of Pompell—the still surviving nins of buildings, tombs, and aquednets, have rought many things within the comprehenous of modern historians which were wholly moved from the knowledge or even the concurred of their predecessors.

Should it be suggested that it is scarcely fa'r to take the inner and individual life of one man as a sample for all the men of his time, or that we have no right to judge of all the Homans by the incidental confessions of Cicero concerning himself, we would reply that Cicero does not merely speak for himself, but for all his continuoraties. He exerywhere assumes that he and his wife and daughter are as pure, as loving, as self sustained, as noble as disinterested, as helieving, and as hopeful as the best Romans of his time. We are justified in taking wirst be says of himself as true of the best men of his generation. iemoved from the Enowledge or even the coniectures of their prodecessors.

3 Modern bistorians are far more critical in their judgment of facts and statements. They have divested themselves of that credulons spirit which was inspired by a vague admiration of everything which the ancients were reported to have said or done. At first, all or nearly all was lefleved which Herodotus and Livy recorded. Such was the anxiety to know something of the earliest times, and such the disposilion to believe every story that was written by an accredited writer in the Latin or Greek langrange, that almost every statement which such writers reported was deemed worthy to be capied and preserved as true. Even those stories of the interposition of the gods, which were plainly false, were repeated with no attempt to ascertain how much or listle truth they contained.
Every statement not plainly contradied by another writer of equal credit, every date and a number not Incon-istent with some other reported number and date, every extraordinary atery of superinman hravery or virtue, were taken without snepiclon of the possibility of unintentional exaggeration or latentional falsehood. Or if these representations are a little too sweeping, it is certainly within bounds to the question is given up as to the virtue and jiety of the common people, the fine sentification is given up as to the virtue and jiety of the common people, the fine sentification of the great thinkers and writers, with their just and deep thoughts concerning the human conscience and the divine government, are appealed to, as proving beyond all doubt or denial that the human soul can reach the highest attainments without the light and power of the Christian faith.

dd. Or if these representations are a little sweeping, it is certainly within bounds to that the disposition to believe and to won-quite overbore the disposition to distrust This is all changed. The ancient historians e now sifted and subjected to scrutiny. The liters of history have come to the conviction at ancient writers might tell large stories, "Nation Bank botes," out of the earning of the road for the all mustle terminating size December lack. 7. This leads us naturally to the observation, hat we can understand the morals and religion in the ancient world far more justly in the earth world far more justly in the east was than It was possible to do befure. Great leversity and great vagueness of cpinion have prevailed in regard to what is a nost judgement in regard to both. That he great masses of men in cities integed in debasing corruption, and cumultated in trageons crimes is conceded by all.
